Lagoon Discovery Camps Open For Registration

Youth Ages 6-9 Can Explore Nature at San Elijo Lagoon — Three Sessions in July

For guardians of young children seeking summer camp enrichment—it's all about nature discovery at San Elijo Lagoon Ecological Reserve.

San Elijo Lagoon Conservancy's popular summer camps are now open for registration for children ages 6-9. Participants can observe plant and animal life by hearing, seeing, smelling, touching—even tasting nature. Activities include live animal encounters, learning to identify critter tracks, and making crafts from recycled and natural materials. Positive experiences are nurtured through discovery hikes, playing games, and journaling. Campers are exploring and making new friends outdoors in a safe environment.

Camps are presented and led by San Elijo Lagoon Conservancy staff and trained naturalists. Scholarships are available.
